Epidemic of Strikes Expected After March 1st

Epidemic of
When the Railroads Will be Turned Back to the Private Owners (By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 7.—An epidemic of railroad strikes may break out immediately after the roads are returned to private control March 1 unless different agreement are speedily reached by the railroad administration and union representatives on the question of increased wages. This was evident today as some of the union spokesmen began to manifest in now talks in discussing their conference with Hines here. All strike talk has been kept in the background and the negotiators have expressed themselves as satisfied with the progress being made. It is believed there is no likelihood of a great general strike before or after the roads go back to private owners. The union leaders confessed they are having difficulty restraining men. If no settlement is reached a number of trades are expected to walk out.

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, Feb. 7.—Germany will resist to the uttermost the allied demand for surrender of Teuton war guilty, according to a statement of the prominent leaders today.

"The whole government thinks and acts as I do," Matthias Erzberger, Minister of Finance, told the United Press. "We are in complete agreement with the minds of all of the people" he added.

Field Marshal Hindenburg and General Ludendorff, whose names are prominent in the list of accused, both declared in a statement that no official shall surrender himself voluntarily upon delivery of the demand.

It was denied officially that Germany will propose to the allies that the war guilty be tried before a neutral court.

Germany's only proposal will be that the accused be tried before a Teuton court at Leipzig, with the allied powers represented.

Allies Will Insist

By HENRY WOOD
(Written for the United Press)

Paris, Feb. 7.—The allies do not have any intention of modifying Article 228 of the peace treaty, it was announced today following a meeting of the council of ambassadors. The allied governments, according to the announcement, regard as imperative that Germany recognize her obligation to carry out the terms of the treaty.

Article 228 is the clause specifying that Germany "recognize the right of the allied powers to bring before a military tribunal persons accused of having committed an act in violation of the law and custom of war."

The council of ambassadors today announced that the allied governments had decided unanimously that the list of German war guilty will be handed to the German government officially at the earliest possible moment. The list will be presented to the German chancellor by French diplomatic agents in Berlin. It will be presented at the same time as the allied covering note.

Five persons have been killed in accidents resulting from the storm. The property damage will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Italian Premier Appealed to Sec. Lansing

To Support Italy's Aspirations in the Adriatic—Said Fiume Question Caused Italian Unrest

By CAMILLA CIANFERRA,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rome, Feb. 7.—Deputy Cesauro created a sensation in the chamber of deputies today when he read a letter represented to be from Premier Nitti to Secretary Lansing in which Nitti urged America's support for Italian aspirations in the Adriatic.

Cesauro criticized the premier severely, charging him with submission to the United States. Premier Nitti, according to the letter, told Lansing the Fiume situation was creating general unrest throughout Italy. He said the internal condition resulted from rejection of Italy's claims to take as granted that the event would be detrimental even to Great Britain and France. After Cesauro's attack Nitti admitted he had written to Lansing and asked Cesauro how the letter came into his possession. Many deputies questioned the genuineness of the document.

Daniels Says Sims Accepted Foreign Decoration

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 7.—Admiral Wm. Sims accepted a decoration from the British government and permitted subordinate officials to receive them before he was authorized by Secretary Daniels, according to correspondence laid before the senate naval affairs investigating committee today.

Daniels resumed his testimony scoring the view of Sims who favors receiving foreign decoration. This would be contrary to American ideals and would tend to seek the favor of foreign governments. Daniels asserted.

Daniels said he has emphatically differed with Sims on this question. He commented on Rear Admiral Rodman who was offered a decoration by the British government but refused to accept in the usual manner of kneeling before the king, and was finally permitted to a formal presentation.

Reliable Information.

An American tourist recently visited the ancient city of Chester, and was startled by the loud clanging of the fire alarm bell.

Seeing others run, he ran, too, and presently found himself one of a crowd gathered to witness the departure of the fire engines. In a short time the engines dashed out of the yard and disappeared down the street in a whirl of dust and smoke.

With a view to gathering information, the tourist addressed himself to a man in the crowd:

"Say, mister, I suppose in an old place like this containing so many timber-framed houses, you often have a fire?"

"Pretty often," assented the man.
"How often, now, does a fire occur?"

asked the American.
"Every time that bell rings," replied the man, nodding towards the bell-tower.—London Tit-Bits.

EXPLAINING "JACK" IN FLAG

Origin of Emblem of the British Empire Goes Back to the Days of Plate Armor.

"The Star-Spangled Banner" explains itself; like the "tricolor" of France. But who put the Jack in Union Jack? This curious term, which is the only name by which we know the British flag, has been the subject of much surmise; but so unique is its history that you would never guess it in a thousand years!

In ancient times every English soldier in the field wore the protecting "jacque" or surcoat (over all), which was a garment of padded leather interspersed with pieces of plate armor, upon the breast the crimson cross of St. George. When the soldiers had occasion to board a ship their jacques were placed next each other along the bulwarks of the ship in the same way that the Romans arranged their shields on board their galleys.

The jacques so afforded the men protection against the arrows of their adversaries on the water, and by their device upon the outer side proclaimed the nationality of the ship. Excepting the king's own ship, which flew the royal arms on a silken sail, the jacques bore the only indication of the nationality of a vessel.

In the course of time, when the jacques were no longer needed along the bulwarks, a solitary jacque was probably displayed at the bowsprit, and so the name "Jack" came into use for the flag that superseded it.

In 1801 the three kingdoms of England, Ireland and Scotland were formally united and the British flag made a combination of the cross of St. George for England, of St. Andrew for Scotland and of St. Patrick for Ireland. It was this union which made the British flag the "Union Jack."

Plumb-Line's Course.

A plumb-line does not always point to the center of the earth, only approximately. The plumb-line if extended so far, would pierce the earth's center if the earth were a perfect sphere composed of matter of equal density throughout. But the earth is irregular, both in shape and in the density of its materials. The plumb-line, if continued, would ordinarily pass through the earth's center of gravity, rather than through its mathematical center. But even this may be modified by conditions on or near the surface. Close to a mountain the plumb-line is drawn a little out of the perpendicular by the gravitational attraction exerted by the mountain in a one-sided direction.
The moon in some positions might affect the perpendicularity as it affects the tides.

Baboons Prefer Cooked Food.
It is somewhat remarkable that, although a baboon in captivity will not eat raw meat unless extremely hungry, it will eat with avidity meat which has been cooked. Since the large extension of sheep farming and the consequent restriction of their natural food supplies, baboons in some parts have developed the habit of raiding flocks in the lambing season and tearing open the stomachs of the lambs for the sake of the milk which these contain. This practice has led to the virtual extermination of baboons over large areas. However, in justice to the raiders it should be noted that it is only when food is very scarce indeed that this criminal practice is indulged in.—Atlantic Monthly.

Art Criticism.

One day a German subaltern who had been ordered to find billets presented himself at my house, writes a Belgian woman in the World's Work. I showed him among others the room occupied for more than two years by the American delegates of the relief commission, in which a reproduction of an ancient work of art—a bust without arms—stood on the mantelpiece. The subaltern thought the room appeared to be comfortable, but seeking to make himself disagreeable, he raised his eyebrows, after looking at the reproduction, and said in a rude voice:

"Why, madam, did you cut the arms off this bust in a room destined to be occupied by a German officer?"

Words failed me. What could I say? He left the house with an offended air. But the incident had no sequel, which was most extraordinary.

Lived Long in Seclusion.

Forty years in the District of Columbia without having set foot on the streets! Such was the record of several of the sisters of the Visitation convent, formerly located at Connecticut avenue and L street Northwest. I am told on authority. For forty years these sisters lived in the school, taking their exercise in the spacious grounds back of the building, surrounded by a high wall. As you go past the building now you see it almost razed to the ground by wreckers, the building and site having been sold recently for a big price. So the good sisters at last came forth from their cells and trod again the streets of the national capital for the first time in forty years.—Washington Star.

PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARIES CALLED

The republican state central committee has issued a call for the holding of republican primaries, county, state and district conventions for the purpose of selecting delegates to represent Minnesota in the republican national convention to place in nomination a republican candidate for president.

The state convention is called for Saturday, March 20th, at the auditorium, in St. Paul, and the district conventions are called for Friday, March 19th, the place and hour to be made known by a call to be issued by the chairman of the Sixth district republican committee. The county conventions will be held on Wednesday, the 17th of March, at a place to be fixed by the county chairman. The primaries to elect delegates to the county convention will be held on Wednesday, March 15th, between the hours of 7:30 and 8:30 p. m. in each precinct of the county at the usual polling places.

The county committee must furnish presidential preference ballots so that each voter may express his preference for president, and the preference expressed by a majority of the voters shall be instructions to the delegates to vote at the various conventions. The paragraph referring to the preferential vote in the call reads as follows:

This committee will furnish presidential preference ballots for use in the several election districts or precincts with the names of the avowed republican candidate for presidential nomination printed thereon and blank spaces for marking and writing so arranged that each voter may express his preference for the presidential nomination. And the clerk of each election district or precinct shall, in making his report upon the credentials of delegates, include therein a statement of the presidential preference in his election district or precinct any such preference which shall have been expressed by the electors thereof, and the secretary of each county convention shall report with the credentials of the delegates elected to the district and state conventions a statement of the presidential preference expressed by the electors of his county. These reports shall accompany the credentials of the delegates to the county or district conventions and to the state convention as the case may be and shall be instructions to said delegates to support candidates for delegates to the national convention favorable to the candidate receiving the highest number of votes in the precinct and in the county.

The county of Wing is entitled to 11 delegates to the district and state conventions, and each precinct to one delegate to the county convention for every 20 votes cast for the republican candidate for governor in said precinct at the last election.

CANDIDATE FOR DELEGATE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

Charles Hayden, who is a candidate for delegate from the sixth district to the republican national convention in Chicago, is receiving many hearty assurances of support from all over the district and his many friends believe he will be chosen a member of the Minnesota delegation. There is not a man in the state who is more deserving of the honor and the republicans of this district will honor themselves by giving Mr. Hayden their unanimous support.

Yesterday's Bemidji Daily Pioneer had the following to say concerning Blackduck's candidate:

"Charles Hayden of Blackduck, a life long republican, is a candidate for the Minnesota national delegation from Minnesota to the republican convention to be held in Chicago June 8, and the republican party of the state could not make a better selection for the committee than Mr. Hayden."

Minnesota and an honor to the republican party of the state."—Blackduck American.

Mr. Hayden has many friends in this county who would be pleased to see him selected to represent the Sixth Minnesota district, and who will do all they can to secure his selection at the convention in March.

EARLY IN COURT

A street car company faces much litigation and expects to have a long day in court, but an Omaha traction company was stumped when a suit was filed against it by an infant, aged 4 months, claiming $50,000 damages for injuries received before birth.

Anna Marie Liblin, who cannot even lip her first name, brought suit against the street railway company for that big sum, her attorneys alleging a bump on her mother's head, sustained in a street car accident, was transmitted to her by prenatal influence.

Anna's attorneys claim she was a regular passenger, having paid her fare under the rule which permits children under five years to ride free when accompanied by a parent. They say an unborn child is a legalized entity.

The street car company claims Anna did not exist as a person until after her birth, therefore that she had no dealing with the company.

If the street car company loses, they may thank their lucky stars that Anna wasn't twins or triplets.

PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER OR POLITICAL CORDWOOD

We hear so much these days about presidential candidates. So many have the "bee" that it appears some one must have kicked over the hive. One satirist said that if our census enumerators would begin by counting the announced candidates for president, the remainder of the work would be easy.

What is a Democrat and what is a Republican. Have those terms any meaning in the sense of national policy. Perhaps some fine distinction exists, but it is sufficient to constitute political platforms. Apparently today these terms mean no more than that the one is pro-Wilson and the other is anti-Wilson.

Mr. Wilson had the confidence of the people during the years of the Great War, but Mr. Wilson lost it. He lost it thru blunders of his own and he lost it thru the course of events. President Wilson's fall from fame and popularity has been extraordinary, and his breakdown in health has only added to the tragedy. The consequences of it all can not give pleasure to any other than a base individual.

On the other hand, the next most prominent man appearing publicly during the war is Herbert Hoover, an appointee of President Wilson and a loyal co-worker and coadjutor. Mr. Hoover has risen, not fallen. He is less of an egotist and better able to select good captains, and he has the ability to stimulate the powers of those who work with him. This is proved by his record of the Food Administration and his later operations for relief in Europe. It is not surprising therefore that at this moment, unintentionally, he possesses a national organization eager for a chance to work in his behalf as a presidential candidate, for every member of the Food Administration would rally to his aid should occasion arise.

More than that, the Food Administration did good work; the men and women of this country know that it did; they complied with its regulations because the Food Administration early gave the impression that he knew what he was doing; he was sagacious as well as humane.

Politicians are watching Mr. Hoover. Both parties would sail under his banner. The one party says, declare yourself a Democrat; you voted for Wilson last fall. The other party says, declare yourself a Republican, you have always been a Republican—if we guess correctly. Each group of party-leaders knows Mr. Hoover will attract votes from the opposite party, whichever should nominate him.

As an independent candidate on a platform of progressive liberalism, either Democrat or Republican, none need fear or fail to support Hoover, because that is the kind of a government he has exemplified in his public career.

Party politics is in bad order; the performances in Congress have sickened thoughtful men; the sacrifice of vital interests to partisanship has been too flagrant. There is much constructive work to be done and it will need the leadership of a man on a scale of twelve inches to the foot. Reviewing the names that appear now under party-labels, it seems that most of the men introduced to us are political cordwood not presidential timber.

Mr. Hoover stands aside as yet; he has done nothing to place his name before either party; he is not anxious for the call, but, like a good citizen, is ready to obey if it has the authentic note of patriotic duty. Can the public speak; will the public speak? He admired and supported Roosevelt; he admired and assisted President Wilson at a time when it was every American's bounden duty to rally to a chief executive; he is liberal, a man of progressive ideas, a practical humanitarian, a just man, able to recognize the rights and wrongs of the economic struggle, but neither a mollycoddle nor a pussyfoot; he has seen enough of foreign ways to appreciate American ideals the more; he is the exponent of a virtue American that stands between the rushing internationalism of Woodrow Wilson and the frothy provincialism of Hiram Johnson. Unless the masses take an active part and push aside worn-out political machines and worn-out political leaders and destroy groundless political partisanship as we see it today, the fiasco of recent months and years will be but repeated.

Canadian Wheat Prices

Winnipeg, Feb. 7.—When the final distribution is made on participation certificates the average price of Canadian wheat to the farmers will be above that the United States, H. W. Wood told the annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta at Calgary recently. "And this," he said, "will happen notwithstanding the fact that as high as $3 per bushel has been paid for wheat in the U. S."

Mr. Wood showed that the average price of wheat in North Dakota where good wheat is grown was only $2.40 per bushel. In Texas the price was as low as $2. He declared that the Canadian Wheat board had handled all the Canadian grain and that millers did not have large stocks on hand when the market was thrown open. As to participation certificates he said, "their value is as yet unknown quantity but if the present high prices hold it will be considerable."

Sea-Horses Scarce.

For a long time one of the most popular exhibits at the aquarium has been the sea-horses, says the New York Times. At the present time there is a scarcity of these interesting fishes with miniature horse's heads and queer tails. W. L. De Nyse, assistant director, said the scarcity might be attributed to the excessive cold of two years ago, in which many of the delicate little fishes might have perished before reaching warmer latitudes.

When in captivity sea-horses have to be fed on minute marine worms. They are found in local bays, and Mr. De Nyse has seen as many as eight or ten with their tails hooked together drifting with the tide. They are among the most unique of fishes, and in the aquarium tank they may be seen with their tails linked together like so many monkeys. The scientific name of the sea-horse is Hippocampus. They were known to the ancient Greeks and Romans.

Sulphur Deposits in Alaska.

Located in the crater of a snow-capped volcanic mountain on Ukalaska island, one of the Aleutian group, is a large deposit of sulphur, believed to contain from 10,000 to 15,000 tons. A claim has been filed for the location, and mining operations probably will start in the near future. Subterranean heat and a hot vapor, the latter issuing from cracks in the rocks, keep the deposit free from ice and snow, though these permanently cover nearly all of the remainder of the peak, which is about 6,000 feet in height. Another sulphur deposit has been discovered on Akun island, in the same group, and a third near Stepaak bay, on the southern shore of the Alaskan peninsula.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Beware Too Juvenile Potato.

When potatoes are prematurely harvested they may prove dangerous to health. There have been several cases of poisoning from potatoes, the most recent being in Leipzig. The Journal of the American Medical Association says the green parts of potatoes contain a poison called solanine, 0.2 grammes of which is sufficient to produce bad results. There is always a minute quantity of this solanine in the tubers, but when these are mature never enough to do harm, unless they have sprouted and the sprouts have not been removed before cooking.

DELEGATES SOON TO BE CHOSEN

TWO BIG PARTIES PREPARING FOR THEIR NATIONAL CONVENTIONS IN JUNE.

BOTH MEETS WILL BE "OPEN"

Probably No Candidate Will Be Assured of Nomination in Advance—Peculiar Features of the Boom for Herbert Hoover.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—Within less than a month the two major political parties will be choosing national convention delegates. Some of the steps preliminary to the election of a president of the United States next November have already been taken. Each of the old political parties, for instance, has sent out the official call for its nominating convention. The Republican convention, as most everybody now knows, will meet in Chicago on Tuesday, June 8, and the Democratic convention in San Francisco on June 28. Each of these conventions will be made up of 984 delegates. This means that the successful contestant for the presidential nomination in the Republican convention will have to receive 493 votes and in the Democratic convention, where the two-thirds rule will prevail, unless it be set aside, 656 votes. There is a good deal of agitation in the Democratic party in favor of abrogating the rule requiring the two-thirds vote to nominate. However, the rule has many staunch friends within the party and it is doubtful if it can be set aside.

All the indications now are that no candidate for president will be able to enter his party's convention assured of the nomination. On the Republican side the entries in the race for the nomination have, it is generally supposed, nearly all been made. The field of candidates is not so large as it promised to be some weeks ago. This is due to the fact that a good many Republicans of prominence have declined to be favorite son candidates.

Declared Republican Candidates.
 For the present at least the field has been narrowed down to the following candidates: Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, New Hampshire; Senator Warren G. Harding, Ohio; Governor Frank O. Lowden, Illinois; Senator Hiram Johnson, California; and Senator Miles Poindexter, Washington. There is another list made up of men who have not personally declared their candidacies but who have been put forward by friends. Included in this list are Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts; Nicholas Murray Butler of New York, president of Columbia university; and Gen. John J. Pershing of Nebraska. The Wood, Harding, Lowden, Johnson and Poindexter campaigns are well under way, each in charge of a general manager with numerous subordinates and with headquarters in various cities. At the outset it seems these five will contest for delegates in most of the states.

A great deal of sentiment in favor of what is called a free convention has been manifested within the Republican party. The refusal of some seven or eight men to be favorite son candidates makes it comparatively certain that the convention will be an open or free one. Some of the states that elect delegates through the preference primary system bind those delegated to support a certain candidate, but the delegates that can be thus chosen will be a minority in the convention. So it seems pretty certain that the Chicago convention will meet comparatively free to do what seems to be the best thing.

Still Waiting for Wilson to Speak.
 On the Democratic side the situation with respect to candidates is still in a formative state. President Wilson continues to remain silent with respect to a possible third term ambition, and his friends believe he will not speak until the senate disposes of the treaty with Germany. These same friends believe that if the treaty is ever ratified the president will announce that he will not be a candidate for re-nomination and reelection. In the meantime not a person on the Democratic side is making an active campaign for delegates. A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general, is regarded as a candidate in case the president stays out, and there are a good many Democrats who entertain the belief that William Jennings Bryan will get into the race before June 28. Thomas R. Marshall, vice president, is also regarded as a possibility, and there is more or less talk of James W. Gerard of New York, former ambassador to Germany. Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska is also looked upon as a likely possibility under certain circumstances.

Over the entire situation, Republican as well as Democratic, broods the shadow of a boom for Herbert C. Hoover of California, former federal food administrator. The politicians in each of the old parties have openly said that they do not favor him, but some of the best of the political prophets declare he is likely to be considered by each of the conventions. For some weeks much has been said publicly and privately on the question as to whether Hoover is a Republican or a Democrat. The men who favor him for president appear to be willing to support him as any party ticket. This of itself is a unique manifestation in American politics.

AMUSEMENTS

At the New Park Tonight

The plot of "A Daughter of Two Worlds," the film drama starring Norma Talmadge, booked to show at the New Park theatre today, is founded in a famous forgery case in New York City, according to Leroy Scott, author of the novel of the same name, which has just been adapted for the screen. The two participants in the forgery each served ten years in Sing Sing. Black Jerry Malone, keeper of a notorious underworld cabaret, father of Jennie, whose part Miss Talmadge stages, is also a character from real life. In the screen version of the forgery Jennie is arrested for it unjustly. Her handwriting had been copied by the real crook and imitated in forging the check.

Jennie, under the advice of her father and Uncle George, jumps her bail, enters a fashionable boarding school and soon finds herself in the upper world, where she meets the man of her heart. The stigma of the underworld follows her, and the crisis is reached when the beautiful Jennie is confronted with the alternative of giving away her true identity at the risk of losing her fiance and her place in society, or remaining silent at the cost of the life of a friend of the other world who had been wrongly convicted of murder.

At the Park Soon

Nazimova, the distinguished Russian star, will be the feature in the powerful Metro super-feature, "The Red Lantern," at the Park theatre soon. In it she is seen in a dual role, which gives her opportunity for the most powerful characterizations of her brilliant career.

The two roles which she enacts are as widely different as the poles—one is that of the Eurasian girl, Mablee, and the other Blanche, her English half-sister.

The story tells of the life of this half-cast girl, who, born in a coffin shop in the Chinese quarter of Peking, is at the death of her grandmother, taken to the Christian Mission and brought up amidst European surroundings. The conflicting blood which surges in her veins causes her passionate restlessness—she feels the lure of China, the mysterious and passionate land of her mother, but the inheritance of her English father, the ideals and intellect of the west, are strong within her and she is like a ball in the hands of Fate—flung from one extreme to the other.

How she becomes the powerful War Maiden of China—the Goddess of the Red Lantern—is shown in this play of remarkable and startling happenings where all the mysticism and gorgeousness of the vivid East is woven into a powerful and fascinating drama. The lure of the Purple Forbidden City—the customs and superstitions of secret China—the gorgeous pagantry and pomp which surrounds the Orient with golden glamour is shown with a touch of magic which brings romance to life.

Town Peculiarly Named.

What's in a name? becomes a matter for consideration in the case of the happy-go-lucky manner of bestowing one practiced by the surveying party about which Captain Reynardson tells in his book on the Mesopotamian campaign. "This party came to a village on the Euphrates not marked on the map, so the surveyors hailed a local Arab and asked him: 'What is the name of this village?' 'Madel,' the Arab replied, 'Madel meaning 'I do not know.' But the party unquestioningly accepted it as the name of the village, and Madel the village is to this day—on the survey map.

Filming Holy Writ.

The Bible is to be filmed, and the men in America who are about to begin this stupendous work claim that their Bible pictures will help to quiet the unrest of the world, and that, as an aid to religion, education and social welfare, their value will be almost incalculable.

QUARANTINE TO BE ENFORCED

Homes Having So-called Influenza are to be Placarded by the Police Department

DANCING IS NOT ALLOWED

Cases of Suspected Influenza to be Placarded as a "Warning"—
Meeting Held

Dr. H. A. Burns of the State Board of Health, on Friday evening met with Mayor F. E. Little, Dr. E. F. Jamieson new health officer, F. H. Simpson of the local board of health, D. H. Fullerton, city attorney, and Miss Ethel Beyer, city and school nurse. Charles Varner, chief of police and also member of the health board, was not present.

Dr. Burns reported on his investigations in Brainerd and claimed that since January 20 there had been 11 deaths due to pneumonia, and that at present there were 30 to 35 cases of pneumonia in the city.

Quarantine Invoked

Dr. Burns said that influenza cases should be quarantined, and the placard recently printed should be attached to the house, to remain during the sickness of the inmate and until five days after the disappearance of the fever.

The breadwinner in such home, however, if not sick, shall be allowed to attend to his work.

Placards are to be put up by the police department, said Dr. Burns, who at the same time are to instruct the family on the necessity of observing the quarantine.

Suspect Cases

Cases of severe colds, etc., suspected of developing into influenza, are to have homes placarded with a warning. If nothing serious develops the sign is to be removed. The breadwinner in such home, if not sick, shall be allowed to attend to his work.

Doctors' Reports

Doctors of the city, continued Dr. Burns, are to report twice daily to the health officer, Dr. Jamieson, by telephone. One report is to be made before 4 o'clock in the afternoon and the other before 9 o'clock in the morning. The health officer is then to tabulate his returns and wire to the state health board between 4 and 4:30 o'clock each day.

Dancing

Dances are to cease until further orders.

Theatres

Movies continue open. They can be made an instrument of education, said Dr. Burns, and patrons can be instructed not to come with coughs or colds. It was felt not necessary to close the movies or theatre.

Billiard Parlors

Regarding billiard parlors and their operation. Games can be played as usual, but the parlor should not be made a place of social gathering.

Visiting Nurse

If the visiting nurse has a suspect and feels a diagnosis must be made, the health officer shall be called.

Quarantine Advantage

The advantage of a quarantine is that it permits general business to be carried on normally.

At Little Falls Deputy Game Warden A. P. Cardie seized 540 pounds of fish, unmarked, which were encased in a Victrola box. They were pickerel which had been shipped by R. C. USE CHEMICAL ON THE ROOF

Ludicrous Incidents of the Girls
Rushing Into Home to Save
Their Belongings

What promised to be a heavy fire was quickly checked Friday evening by the fire department when the motor fire truck made a fast run to the nurses home at St. Joseph's hospital and extinguished a fire on the roof.

The chemical was taken off the truck, given a turn for quick action and then ladders had to be placed in two or more positions to make the roof of the two-story structure located southwest of the hospital. By that time the tank was generating terrific pressure. J. C. Claussen had the chemical and luckily had himself well balanced on the ridge pole when he pressed the valve of the chemical, otherwise it would have kicked him off the roof.

During the excitement nurses rushed for the home to take out their belongings. The first girl emerged triumphantly with a finger nail file, powder puff and a button hook, said one of the firemen. The second girl brought out a red apple, pin cushion and a black kewpie carnival doll. Juggling these, the girls frantically asked if the firemen would save the rest. Trunks then came tumbling out.

Two gallons of chemical solution effectually squelched the fire, the smoke settled and everybody moved in again.

U. S. Commissioner W. A.
Fleming in Brainerd

Four Cuyuna iron range men were taken in custody by Special Officer E. G. Boyd, Leo Meyer and George Musolf and brought before U. S. Commissioner W. A. Fleming on these charges:

Matt Kaniski, living near Trommald, charged with having 160 gallons of wine in his possession.

Louis Lakatz of Crosby, charged with having a gallon of whiskey in his possession.

Eli and John Obradovich of Crosby charged with having a quantity of mash fit for distillation in their possession.

All were held for further hearing.

9 HOUR DAY IS NOT RELISHED

Brainerd shopmen did not relish the extension of an eight hour day to nine hours, even if the extra hour brought time and a half overtime, and on Friday, first day of the order, no one remained at work over eight hours.

The company made the request for a longer day, asserting the Northern Pacific railway company was short on power.

Cooperstown.

Probably the most complete monument to an American writer in existence is Cooperstown, a picturesque village in northwestern New York on Lake Otsego, near the source of the Susquehanna.

It was named after James Fenimore Cooper's father; it was the writer's home and is his burial place; the scenes of his various stories are laid around it and the greater part of its population at present is made up of his relatives or connections by marriage. In fact the whole place is flavored with the essence of Cooperism. A well-worn path to the writer's grave in the old village churchyard gives mute testimony to his popularity.

ADVOCATES ONIONS AS FLU REMEDY

Cod Kimball of Pequot, President of the First State Bank of Pequot, Brainerd Visitor

SHARP ADVANCE IN ONIONS

Now $7 a Hundred—Flu Remedy
Even Adopted in France, Quoted
by "Stars and Stripes"

Cod Kimball, president of the First State bank of Pequot, originator and first disseminator of the efficacy of the lowly onion as a sovereign remedy for the flu, was in town today.

Unlike many reformers and propagandists, Mr. Kimball tried the onion cure on himself and his family last year and saved the entire family. He fed them boiled, roasted, baked, grilled, syrupy, mealy, and every other combination of onions until the flu capitulated. As Cod said, it was a strong remedy and it worked.

Wide Publicity

Widespread publicity was given the onion cure, much to the distress of wise professors and theorists who saw in the onion only something to load a breath. In polite circles an onion breath is an outcast.

Nevertheless the onion theory spread to the ends of the earth. Every paper took it up. One of the most refreshing incidents of Mr. Kimball's career was when an old Scandinavian neighbor drove up with a copy of the Norwegian Decorah Posten and there in Norwegian was all about the Kimball onion cure. And when Cod's boy came back from France he carried French papers and the "Stars and Stripes" with reports on the Kimball onion cure.

Onions Advance

"And now see what's happened," said Mr. Kimball.

"Onions are now quoted at $7 a hundred, which is about 10 cents a breath."

Buttermilk

"Confidentially," said Mr. Kimball, "I have lately taken up buttermilk and have made a number of startling experiments but I hate to tell the results of my investigations, for after seeing how onions behaved in price after I recommended them for the flu, I'd hate to see buttermilk jump out of sight too and be almost beyond the reach of the average family. Buttermilk, however, has nothing to do with a flu cure, it concerns something entirely different."

Mr. Kimball is 73 years young, bright-eyed, cheery, optimistic, and for the first time in years is wearing a beard.

In the meantime Mr. Kimball is sitting tight on his buttermilk researches but eventually he will let go and has promised the Dispatch, as he did with his onion cure, the first report on his experiments in that sphere of the lacte world.

This whole story may read funny to unbelievers, but when one can look the flu square in the eye and grin at the same time and come to town after nursing another family to health, the lowly, succulent onion is not to be disregarded, not even by a highbrow burdened with half the letters of the alphabet as tacked on degrees.

SUPREME COURT CASES REPORT

Attorney M. E. Ryan Wins Two Important Suits, Syllabus of Koochiching County Case

CONCERNED SALE OF BONDS

Order for New Trial Affirmed in Thorkeldson as Special Administrator vs. Nicholson

Attorney M. E. Ryan won two cases in supreme court, as announced Friday.

In the case of County of Koochiching, respondent, vs. George A. Elder, Commercial Investment Company, R. S. McDonald, William Durin, Harold Royen and L. H. Slocum defendants and John Nuveen & Co. appellants, in which Mr. Ryan appeared for Koochiching county, the order was affirmed. The syllabus read:

1. Under section 5542 G. S. 1913, a contract made by a county for sale of its bonds at less than par, is as between the original parties void. Payment of a commission to the buyer is but a discount.

2. If the bonds are sold for less than par the county may affirm the transaction and recover the amount of the discount from the buyer.

3. When a bid for less than par has been accepted by one without ability to complete the purchase, one who with full knowledge of the facts, and with an agreement to divide the discount becomes a participant in the transaction, receives the bonds from the county, and pays the county for them, is liable to respond to the county for the amount of the discount.

4. Other alleged errors present no ground for reversal.

Order affirmed.

The opinion written by Justice Hallen states in part that "In January 1915 Koochiching county issued $186,000 of ditch bonds. Defendant Nuveen was in the business of buying and dealing in municipal bonds in Chicago under the name of John Nuveen & Co. George A. Elder was a bond broker at Duluth. He had organized a corporation known as the Commercial Investment Company. He controlled the corporation, owned practically all its stock, and used it simply as an instrumentality for carrying on his personal business."

"There is evidence that, for a period of ten years, Elder had bought bonds in cooperation with Nuveen, on a profit-sharing basis. They had handled three previous issues for Koochiching county. Elder would buy the bonds, Nuveen would take them up. If necessary Nuveen would advance money to make deposits to accompany bids. Often the bid was made in Nuveen's name."

"The fact is that Nuveen and Elder had been engaged in a joint venture, and, whatever the form of the transaction as far as the municipality was concerned, they made division of the profit arising therefrom."

"Then came a break in their relations. For the purchase of the issue of bonds involved in this action they interposed competitive bids. Elder succeeded in outwitting Nuveen's representative, and he secured an acceptance of his bid for the bonds, nominally for the Commercial Investment Company, in fact for himself, and secured an agreement by which the county agreed to pay him a commission of five per cent. Nuveen then proceeded to negotiate with Elder. Elder's testimony is that he told Nuveen the whole transaction, told him of the price and the commission, and he testified that they closed this deal on practically the same basis as they had closed every other deal. Nuveen was to put up the money. Elder was to contribute one per cent, and on the last half, two per cent, of the five per cent commission, and it was calculated that by an additional profit of five per cent by selling the bonds at a premium Nuveen could secure a satisfactory return. When the time came to issue the bonds, they were forwarded by the county, through the bank at International Falls, which acted as the county's depository, to a Chicago bank. On their arrival Nuveen paid par and interest less his share of the commission agreed upon."

"As far as Elder is concerned this sale was for less than par. The commission was a mere sham and in fact a discount. The right to recover the amount thereof from Elder is clear. If Nuveen knew all the facts, and the jury, upon sufficient evidence found that he did, we think the right to recover from Nuveen is also clear. Although the original bid and its acceptance by the county was a transaction between the county and Elder alone, Nuveen later became a party to the transaction. He adopted all that Elder had done and accepted the fruits of it. It was more than mere ratification. Ratification pre-

New Process in Sculpture.

A process for producing bas-reliefs by photography is the fruit of the invention of an Italian scientist. The basis of the invention is the property possessed by a film of chromium gelatin of swelling in proportion to the intensity of light falling upon it. The swelling is greater with a low than with a high intensity, so that the light passing through a photographic negative produces upon a chromium gelatin plate a positive in distinct relief. The transparency of an ordinary negative, however, is not truly proportional to the relief of the original model, but by an ingenious automatic device involving double exposure this difficulty is avoided and a negative is obtained having its lights and shades correctly graded to produce the effect in bas-relief.

MEXICO PROBLEM LEFT UNSETTLED

TROUBLESOME QUESTION WILL BE PASSED ON TO THE NEXT ADMINISTRATION.

WAS INHERITED BY WILSON

Why He Always Has Avoided Armed Intervention—Special Senate Committee Soon Will Report on the Misdeeds of Our Southern Neighbor.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—The so-called Mexican problem is to be passed on to the next administration. Three months ago it looked as if armed intervention by the United States in Mexico was inevitable, but things have been smoothed over again, and unless there shall be developments between now and March 4, 1921, which shall make intervention absolutely necessary the present relationship between the United States and her neighbor on the south will continue. The Mexican situation has been before President Wilson since the day he entered the White House. His predecessor, William H. Taft, passed it on to him, not because he did not wish to shoulder the responsibility for dealing with it but because he and his cabinet did not see a solution of the problem.

During the first term of President Wilson this government conducted one investigation after another in Mexico. It came very near to war with the military occupation of the country when it landed troops at Vera Cruz, and later it approached armed intervention when it sent General Pershing at the head of an army over the border in search of General Villa and his band of marauders; but actual intervention was always stayed off. It has always been understood here by persons who keep in touch with the administration that President Wilson held off intervention because he believed that if the step should ever be taken it would be most difficult for the United States to withdraw from Mexico; and he has always been opposed to any movement looking to the absorption of Mexico, with her rich natural resources, by the United States.

Senate Committee to Report Soon.

Just now a special committee, representing the foreign relations committee of the senate, is contemplating an exhaustive investigation of the entire Mexican situation and within a few weeks will report to the senate. This committee, of which Senator Fall of New Mexico is chairman, has received the co-operation of the state department and undoubtedly will be able to give the senate a good deal of important information. There is no question but that the committee will reveal a long list of Americans murdered by Mexicans during the last ten years, and it will be able to show that the United States, during the last seven years and even for a longer period, has had grievances against Mexico which would warrant this country in intervening with arms. It is not believed, however, that the committee will recommend armed intervention. Some of the members of the committee, if not all of them, believe that there is another and a better way to adjust the differences between the two countries, though they are not clear at this time as to what that way is. The committee will tell the senate that President Carranza of Mexico has throughout his term of office shown an unfriendliness toward the United States.

President Wilson has believed that with the League of Nations in operation it would be possible under the provisions of the covenant for the league to deal with Mexico. At the recent pan-American financial conference here, attended by many of the ablest men from Central and South America, there was any amount of informal talk about what is to be done with Mexico, and the drift of this conversation was to the effect that, probably, the League of Nations, when it gets under way, will be able to put such pressure on Mexico as will force her to behave herself.

Whole Continent Against Mexico.

It is a notable fact that the Central and South American governments feel toward Mexico very much as does the United States; they take the position that she has been playing the part of outlaw long enough, and that the time is not far distant when the governments of the western hemisphere, if not the governments of the world, will have to take her in hand.

The recent resignation of our ambassador, Mr. Fletcher, emphasizes once more the trying position of any American who attempts to represent this government at Mexico City. Ambassador Fletcher has made no criticism of the course the United States has taken, but has simply said that he could not be of any service to his country in Mexico City so long as Mexico continued to "act up."

The situation has cost the United States an immense sum of money during the last seven or eight years. During this entire period, with the exception of about a year when the United States was in the thick of the fighting in France, the government maintained a large military force on the Mexican border. The major part of the American army is down there today. It costs a great deal more to maintain an army in the field than in barracks.

FAR EAST ATHLETES TO ENTER OLYMPICS

Big Sporting Boom Now On in Various Oriental Countries.

Interest in American Games in China Has Caused Demand for Native Amateur Athletic Association—Skating Popular.

Athletes from China, Japan, the Philippines and other far Eastern countries may be contenders for honors at the seventh Olympiad, to be held at Antwerp next August, and for a certainty will be formidable contenders at succeeding Olympiads, so keen has become the interest fostered by the Y. M. C. A. in these countries. In China, particularly, the interest in American athletics has caused a demand to come from all parts of this great new republic for a native national amateur athletic association.

R. A. Leake, physical director for the "Y" at Foochow, China, reports that "the need for this has grown during the last few years, owing to inter-sectional athletics and China's participation in the far Eastern Olympics, held at Manila. On the occasion of the assembling of the Chinese team of more than one hundred picked men at Manila, it was decided to make a start toward organizing a federation.

A committee was appointed to draft and present such a constitution and by-laws. This has been done, and it has been distributed for correction and criticism. The completion of the organization certainly will be effected during the coming year."

A great rivalry in American athletics has sprung up between China and Japan since the Chinese athletes outpointed the Japanese in the far Eastern Olympics last summer, although the meet was won by the Philippine Islanders.

Skating and skiing have become popular in Japan, and, although that country is called the Land of the Cherry Blossoms, parts of it have heavy falls of snow and several weeks of splendid ice each winter. China has taken the hint from Japan, and an Oriental Johnnie Nilsson may appear on a sport program in the not distant future. The American swing and the American "pep" are rapidly being acquired by the far Eastern athletes, who are getting down to a real training basis.

Baseball, football, and basketball, in addition to track and field sports, are rapidly growing in popularity in many parts of China. John Bradshaw, physical director of the "Y" at Amoy, China, writes: "The basketball league has proved a splendid success. Large crowds have attended the games and a great deal of interest has been shown, so that even the middle schools have taken up this sport."

MAY LAND CATCHER SNYDER

Brooklyn Club Figures on Filling Place of Outfielder Griffith—Also Wants Backstop.

President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club says Outfielder Tom Griffith never has told him he intends to retire from baseball, but the club head thinks that may be Tom's intention and will set out to fill his place unless he hears to the contrary. The Brooklyn club also is seeking a catcher, maybe two catchers, and there is a story that it may get Frank Snyder from the New York Giants.

Tell All The World "PAIN IN MY SIDE"

Davenport, Iowa.—"I wish I could tell all the world how much I owe to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was nearing middle life when my last child came and my health was miserable. I had continuous pain in my right side. I took nine bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and can truly say that I suffered the least and my health afterwards was better than it had ever been before. Going thru the critical time of life I depended solely upon 'Favorite Prescription' to keep me well and strong, and it did not fail me. I had none of the distressing symptoms most women have at this period, such as heat flashes and dizzy spells. I came thru in excellent health and am still just as strong and well as I was thirty years ago, thanks to this best of medicines, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."—Mrs. ALICE VAN ARNAM, 1705 W. 4th St.

FOR ALL AILING WOMEN
Foley, Minn.—"Some years ago Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cured me of a case of woman's weakness and since that time I have become the mother of seven healthy children. I have always taken the 'Prescription' and not one of my children was ever puny or sickly. They have grown up strong, and I have been in the best of health these many years due I am sure to the constant use of this medicine. I hardly know what I would have done without it. I feel safe in recommending it to all ailing women. There is nothing better."

"We also keep Dr. Pierce's 'Pleasant Pellets' in the house for immediate use."—Mrs. GEO. WALBRIDGE, Lock Box 318.

ADVERTISE IN THE DISPATCH

RUMOR HAS IT THAT HUGH JENNINGS IS READY TO QUIT AS LEADER OF TIGERS

MANAGER HUGH JENNINGS
Manager Hugh Jennings and Jack Coombs, Who Has Been Engaged to Coach the Detroit Pitchers.

It would not be a surprise if Detroit's signing Jack Coombs as assistant manager to Hugh Jennings proves a step toward making the man from Maine manager of the Tigers in another year.

Jennings has been active as a ball player and manager for 20 years or more, and it is rumored he plans to purchase a substantial block of the stock of the Detroit club now held by the William Yawkey estate and become an official of the club, probably vice president, writes Henry P. Edmunds in Cleveland Plain Dealer. In that case, he would merely supervise the campaign of the team about as Comiskey does at Chicago.

Hughy is Forty-Nine.
Hughy is nearly forty-nine, and has been identified with the national game for nearly 30 years. He was a member of the Louisville National league club in 1891. He remained a player and one of the game's greatest stars for more than ten years. Then, after a few seasons as manager of the Baltimore Eastern league team, he came to the American league as manager of the Detroit team. That was in 1907 and he proceeded to win three pennants.

He suffered two accidents in the off-season that would have crippled an ordinary man for life, but he has been able to train each spring with his players and got out every day of the season and hit grounders in batting practice. He still is in splendid health but he would welcome a change that would be a promotion and relieve him of the wear and tear of traveling all season and the strain of sitting on a bench during a close game.

Strange as it may seem, Jennings never has been able to get as much out of his pitchers as the baseball world believed could be extracted.

Hired Jim McGuire.
Hughy realized that and did his best to hire someone who could. He had Jim McGuire catching the pitchers. There was no improvement. He got Billy Sullivan. He failed to get results. He tried Jimmy Burke and then Dan Howley, but was not satisfied. In Coombs he thinks he has the man.

Jack did wonders with the Brooklyn pitchers in 1916 and, while he did not have wonderful success as manager of the Phillies last season, it was largely because he was handed no material.

When he joins Jennings at Macon, Ga., in March, Coombs will find a pretty fair pitching staff, but one that can be improved. Boland, Daus, Leonard, Ehmeke, Love, Cunningham and Ayers are good pitchers, but under the coaching of Coombs they should be even better.

"Cakes and Beer, and Washing Here"

Before a ramshackle house in a little New England village there used to hang this sign:

"Hiram, the widow's son, I hope
"Can furnish customers with soap,
"Such as will make the washing day
"Pass off as pleasant, e'en as May.
"Cakes, and beer, and washing here."

Hiram had the right idea. He knew that there were people who wanted what he had to sell. The difference between Hiram and the modern advertiser is that the former had to trust to somebody passing to see his sign. He could not bring his sign to everybody.

The modern advertiser with something to sell that he feels you want, saves you the trouble of going to his place to see about it. Readers of advertisements visit all the advertisers at a single sitting.
